

Business

'Asia's lithium capital' grinds to a halt as output of battery material stops in Yichun amid pollution investigation in Jiangxi province's Jin River

- Shenzhen-listed Yongxing Special Materials Tech says it has halted production in Yichun to facilitate the investigation
- Environmental protection in the new energy production process has been 'neglected', analyst says

Listen to this article

Business of climate change + FOLLOW

Yujie Xue in Shenzhen + FOLLOW

Published: 5:30pm, 7 Dec 2022

Why you can trust SCMP

Advertisement

SUBSCRIBE

city’s residential water supply, prompting concerns about the underbelly of lithium production.

Become a subscriber to access past articles

Subscribe for global news with an Asian perspective

AUGUST SALE: Our biggest ever offer.
Ends 1 Sep.*

RECOMMENDED

1-YEAR SAVE 85%

USD ~~10~~ 1.50 /month SUBSCRIBE

Billed as USD18 for the first year

3-MONTH SAVE 82%

USD ~~11~~ 2 /month SUBSCRIBE

Billed monthly as USD2 for the first 3 months

*T&Cs apply.

EXPLORE OUR PLANS

Already a subscriber? LOG IN