Alvarez & Marsal appointed administrators to Venator plc holding companies; UK, US and France trading companies continue to operate as normal

WYNYARD, UK – Mark Firmin, Helen Skeates and Richard Beard of global professional services firm Alvarez & Marsal have been appointed joint administrators to Venator Materials plc, the top, non-trading, holding company in the Venator Group. Mark Firmin and Helen Skeates have also been appointed joint administrators of two other non-trading holding companies, Venator Materials International UK Limited and Venator Investments UK Limited. The main UK trading company, Venator Materials UK Limited, remains trading as normal, outside of any insolvency process. The Group's US and French businesses also continue trading as normal.

The Venator Group is a chemical company dedicated to the development and manufacture of titanium dioxide pigments and performance additives, operating internationally in the UK, Spain, France, the US, Malaysia, Germany and other international locations. The Group employs 519 people in the UK and a total of 2,249 globally.

The administrators, together with the Venator leadership team, will be working to progress a sale of the UK businesses operating from Greatham, Wynyard and Birtley.

At the same time, sale processes will be initiated for other entities across the Group. Any interested parties should make themselves known to the administrators.

All other entities in the Group remain under the governance of their respective boards who, together with the administrators, are assessing the wider position.

Mark Firmin, Joint Administrator and Managing Director at Alvarez & Marsal said: "Venator Group has been severely impacted by increased competition and rising costs in recent months. The appointment of administrators now provides a platform for restructuring. We will work closely with the Venator leadership team to progress the sale of the UK businesses and other businesses worldwide."

Bryan Snell, President and Chief Executive Officer at Venator, commented: "I recognise this news may be unsettling for many of our colleagues and I want to personally thank everyone for their professionalism, resilience, and dedication during this time. Our priority is to work alongside the administrators and do everything we can to support a successful sale of available entities, securing a sustainable, long-term future for these businesses"
