UK Packaging Awards | Aegg named entrepreneurial business of the year

Suffolk-based food and drink packaging company Aegg has won the Entrepreneurial Business of the Year title at the 2025 UK Packaging Awards.

Judges said: “This award recognises Aegg for its combined outstanding financial, business and product performance. The panel said Aegg is sharply focussed and has established a strong market position: a bold vision and business growth that’s setting new standards in packaging.”

Richard Drayson, sales and marketing director, said: “The UK Packaging Awards represent a who’s who in the UK packaging industry, so we were delighted to be recognised for this award amongst our peers. This award is a reflection of the innovation, resilience and dedication that drive our business forward – and would simply not be possible without the outstanding support of our valued customers, manufacturing and supply chain partners, as well as the fantastic team here at Aegg! We are very proud of our team and partners, who have all supported us in achieving this recognition. We collect this award on their behalf!”
