On November 8, at the Thai-Chinese Rayong Industrial Park in Rayong Province, Thailand, workers worked on the production line of Dunan Metal (Thailand) Co., Ltd.

Established in 2006, the Thailand-China Rayong Industrial Park is located more than 100 kilometers southeast of Bangkok, the capital of Thailand. It is one of the first overseas economic and trade cooperation zones in China. Up to now, the industrial park has attracted 180 Chinese manufacturing companies and more than 30 supporting companies to invest in Thailand, creating more than 45,000 local jobs. The Thailand-China Rayong Industrial Park has become a model of China-Thailand production capacity cooperation.
