3. Stabilize the export of industrial products.

To ensure the stability of the foreign trade industry chain, guide all localities to establish a service guarantee system for key foreign trade enterprises, solve the difficult problems of foreign trade enterprises in a timely manner , and provide guarantees in terms of production, logistics, and employment.

Improve the efficiency of port collection and distribution and domestic transportation to ensure fast transfer and fast transportation of import and export goods.

Implement policies and measures to stabilize foreign trade, further increase support for export credit insurance, and do a good job in foreign trade credit.

Support the development of new foreign trade formats such as cross-border e-commerce and overseas warehouses.

4. Improve the resilience and security level of the industrial chain and supply chain.

All localities must strictly implement the "nine do's" requirements for epidemic prevention and control , guide enterprises to establish closed-loop production plans and emergency response plans, and do a good job in production material storage, employee arrival, living and epidemic prevention material supply to ensure smooth flow of people and logistics.

Establish a coordination mechanism to deal with the impact of major emergencies, normalize and stabilize the industrial chain and supply chain, focus on key areas, key industries, and key enterprises, strengthen inter-regional, upstream and downstream linkages, and "point-to-point" and "one-to-one" help leading enterprises Work with key node enterprises to solve the problem of stuck points, ensure the stable production of key enterprises, and the stable and smooth supply chain of key industrial chains

Give full play to the role of the inter-ministerial coordination mechanism for coal, electricity, oil and gas transportation guarantee work, strengthen the overall planning and coordination of resources, formulate emergency plans for energy supply protection, guide local governments to optimize and orderly electricity consumption measures, ensure the safety of electricity, electricity and coal supply during peak winter, and meet the needs of industrial development. energy demand.

5. Continue to develop new kinetic energy.

In-depth implementation of smart manufacturing projects, launching smart manufacturing pilot demonstrations, accelerating the digitization of equipment, selecting and releasing a new batch of service-oriented manufacturing demonstrations, and accelerating the transformation to intelligent, green and service-oriented.

6. Promote the improvement of quality and efficiency in the raw material industry.

Focus on industry segments or key products with a good industrial foundation, outstanding comparative advantages, and leading technologies, give play to the leading role of leading enterprises in the industrial chain, and support the formation of a number of industrial clusters.

Implement the carbon peak implementation plan in the fine industrial field and key industries, improve the green manufacturing system, and accelerate the promotion and application of energy-saving and carbon-reducing equipment technologies.

Do a good job in ensuring the supply and stable prices of bulk raw materials , and improve the "red, yellow and blue" early warning mechanism for the supply of bulk raw materials.

Optimize the layout and build a national key platform for new materials, deepen the implementation of the insurance compensation mechanism for the first batch of applications, and accelerate the promotion of a batch of key new materials production-use connection and market application promotion.

7. Promote the stable recovery of the consumer goods industry.

In-depth implementation of the "three products" strategy of increasing varieties, improving quality, and creating brands, and compiling the "Guidelines for Upgrading and Innovating Consumer Products" to promote iterative product updates.

8. Give full play to the role of the "pillar" of large enterprises.

Large enterprises should put stable growth in a more prominent position, and implement the goals and tasks of stable growth in detail. It is necessary to actively provide project and financial support for suppliers of small and medium-sized enterprises, and "pay as much as possible and pay quickly" for the accounts of small and medium-sized enterprises.

9. Increase efforts to support the development of small and medium-sized enterprises and private enterprises with "specialization, specialization and innovation".

Give full play to the role of the coordination mechanism for small and medium-sized enterprises at all levels, do a good job in the implementation of various policies that benefit enterprises, and encourage local governments to introduce supporting measures.

Vigorously promote the development of characteristic industrial clusters of small and medium-sized enterprises, and stimulate the emergence of a large number of specialized and new enterprises, "little giant" enterprises and individual champion enterprises in manufacturing.

10. Safeguard measures

Relevant departments in various places should give full play to the role of the coordination mechanism for stabilizing industrial growth, strengthen organizational leadership, tap policy potential, improve supporting measures, pay close attention to policy implementation, and promote the stable operation of the industrial economy in the region.

All relevant departments should combine their functions and responsibilities, actively introduce policy measures that are conducive to promoting the steady growth of the industrial economy, promote precise policies, and further release policy effects.

Implement the State Council's package of policies to stabilize the economy and follow-up policies, and make full use of taxation and financial policies such as manufacturing industry leftover tax rebates, super deduction of research and development expenses, and special loans for manufacturing.

Make good use of the small and micro enterprise financing guarantee fee reduction bonus funds, and expand the scale of government financing guarantee business. Encourage localities to arrange special funds for the rescue of small and medium-sized enterprises, and provide financial support to qualified enterprises.
