Shandong issued the notice on soliciting work Opinions on Provincial Electricity Market Transactions in 2023

2022-10-26 18:09

Follow us

A few days ago, the Energy Bureau of Shandong Province issued the Notice on Soliciting Work Opinions on Electricity Market Trading in the Province in 2023. The notice points out that distributed new energy will be orderly promoted to participate in market cost sharing, and support new energy and equipped energy storage consortiums to participate in the electricity market. In 2023, power grid enterprises will act as agents for the electricity price structure of power purchase users, and will no longer implement peak-valley time-of-use electricity prices.

Generator sets participating in medium and long-term transactions should refer to the spot market price signal in Shandong Province, provide diversified medium and long-term contract curves, sign medium- and long-term trading contracts with time-of-use prices with electricity sales companies and wholesale users, and strictly implement the weighted average price of medium- and long-term transactions throughout the year Document [2021] No. 1439, and the fluctuation range of the benchmark price shall not exceed 20% (315.9-473.9 yuan/MWh, including capacity compensation electricity price), the medium- and long-term trading electricity price of high-energy-consuming enterprise users is not subject to the 20% increase.

Improve the retail market price formation mechanism, promote the formation of time-of-use prices in the retail market, and fully reflect the relationship between supply and demand in the electricity market.

In retail transactions, according to the changes in the electricity load or net load characteristics of Shandong power system, and with reference to the time-of-use electricity price signal of the spot electricity energy market, the capacity compensation price collection method based on the peak-load liability method is trialed among all industrial and commercial users, and the power users are guided to cut peaks and fill valleys and stagger peak consumption. During the peak period of new energy power generation and the period when the power generation capacity is abundant, the capacity compensation electricity price is charged according to the base price (99.1 yuan/MWh, the same below) multiplied by the valley coefficient K1 (K1 value 0-50%); During the period of tight power generation capacity, the capacity compensation electricity price is charged according to the benchmark price multiplied by the peak coefficient K2 (K2 value is 100%-200%); According to the needs of the system, set the deep valley and peak coefficient. The capacity compensation electricity price in other periods remains unchanged. Keep the overall level of capacity compensation fees basically stable, and liquidate the collection of capacity compensation fees on a monthly basis, and the excess or difference fees are shared or shared by all industrial and commercial users according to the proportion of electricity consumption in the month.
