Fitch Affirms ChemChina at 'A'; Outlook Stable

Sun 08 May, 2022 - 21:37 ET

Fitch Ratings - Hong Kong - 08 May 2022: Fitch Ratings has affirmed China National Chemical Corporation Limited's (ChemChina) Long-Term Issuer Default Rating (IDR) and senior unsecured rating at 'A'. The Outlook is Stable. A full list of rating actions is at the end of this commentary.

Fitch rates ChemChina on a top-down basis under its Parent and Subsidiary Linkage (PSL) Rating Criteria. This reflects the low legal, high strategic and high operational incentives for the parent, Sinochem Holdings Corporation Ltd. (Sinochem Holdings) to provide support to wholly owned ChemChina.

Our internal assessment of Sinochem Holdings, which is wholly owned by China's State-owned Assets Supervision and Administration Commission of the State Council, is derived on a top-down basis from the Chinese sovereign (A+/Stable) under our Government-Related Entities Rating Criteria.

The Stable Outlook reflects our expectation that linkages between Sinochem Holdings and ChemChina will remain intact.

KEY RATING DRIVERS

Sinochem Holdings Linked to State: We assesses Sinochem Holdings' status, ownership and control by the Chinese state as 'Strong' because of the government's full ownership

Financial distress at Sinochem Holdings would limit funding for other state-owned enterprises, as the company and its subsidiaries are active domestic and offshore bond issuers.

Parental Linkages Drive Rating: ChemChina's ratings are derived from our internal assessment of the creditworthiness of Sinochem Holdings under PSL criteria where Sinochem Holdings is the stronger parent. After a reorganisation in 2021, ChemChina has effectively become a legal entity as its actual management and finance functions have merged with the relevant offices of Sinochem Holdings. However, ChemChina remains the direct controlling shareholder of some of the most important operating assets of the parent, and still has a substantial amount of outstanding debt.

High Operational Incentive: We assess the parent's operational incentive to support ChemChina as 'High'. Sinochem Holdings has full control over ChemChina. The two have substantial overlap in senior management. ChemChina is integral to Sinochem Holdings as its agrochemical, materials, specialty chemical and animal nutrition businesses are key pillars of the parent's core operations. Substantial synergies along the chemical value chain exist between the subsidiaries of ChemChina and the other operating entities of Sinochem Holdings.

High Strategic Incentive: We assess Sinochem Holdings' strategic incentive to support ChemChina as 'High'. ChemChina makes accounts for over half of Sinochem Holdings' EBITDA and total assets. ChemChina owns the most strategically important agrochemical business of the parent via Syngenta Group Co., Ltd. (Syngenta Group, A/Stable), which is a global leader in crop protection, seeds and crop nutrition products. ChemChina and its subsidiaries' assets and operations provide critical competitive advantage to Sinochem Holdings in the domestic and global markets.

Low Legal Incentive: We assess the parent's legal incentive to support ChemChina as 'Low' due to the absence of legal ties between ChemChina and Sinochem Holdings in the form of guarantees and cross-default clauses in their debt documents.

Leverage to Remain High: Fitch expects ChemChina to gradually deleverage during ChemChina's rating and linkages with its parent are comparable with those of Baoshan Iron & Steel Co. Ltd. (Baosteel, A/Positive). Baosteel, which is China Baowu Steel Group Corporation Limited's (A/Positive) major operating entity, holds around half of the group's total production capacity. The operational and strategic importance of ChemChina and Baosteel to their respective parents are similar.

- Structural features: A further rise in macro-financial risks, for example through failure to maintain credit growth close to or below nominal GDP growth over the next few years.
- Public finances: A sustained upward trend in government debt/GDP, or a crystallisation of contingent liabilities that leads to a sharp rise in government debt relative to 'A' peers.

Factors that could, individually or collectively, lead to positive rating action/upgrade:

- Structural features: A material reduction in macro-financial risks and associated contingent liabilities facing the sovereign, for example, by maintaining credit growth below nominal GDP growth over a multi-year period, which would cause the removal of the -1 qualitative overlay notch on structural features.
- External finances: Evidence of widespread adoption of the Chinese yuan as a global reserve currency, as reflected in a substantial increase in the share of yuan-denominated claims in the IMF's currency composition of official foreign-exchange reserves (COFER) database.

BEST/WORST CASE RATING SCENARIO

International scale credit ratings of Non-Financial Corporate issuers have a best-case rating upgrade scenario (defined as the 99th percentile of rating transitions, measured in a positive direction) of three notches over a three-year rating horizon; and a worst-case rating downgrade scenario (defined as the 99th percentile of rating transitions, measured in a negative direction) of four notches over three years. The complete span of best- and worst-case scenario credit ratings for all rating categories ranges from 'AAA' to 'D'. Best- and worst-case scenario credit ratings are based on historical performance.
