Subject: TD0027 - Submission for Ceramic Tiles

Good afternoon

The UK industry accepts the exclusion of tiles over 600mm x 600mm, because tiles imported over this size would be unlikely to cause injury to the UK industry on the basis that they are mostly used for external cladding. The UK industry does not support the exclusion of tiles 600mm x 600mm or under, because these could be used as wall tiles and would compete, likely causing injury. See the many 600mm x 600mm wall tiles available at tile retailers.

We remain very concerned about the expiry date for these measures and would strongly encourage the TRA to take the European Commission's lead and allow the next review to take place in 2030.

Best wishes
